

PMDC Employees Attend QMS Refresher Course

Pasig City, Philippines—Being a staunch believer that employees are its greatest asset, the Philippine Mining Development, through its Human Resources and Administration Department (HRAD), organized an in-house training entitled “Refresher on ISO 9001:2015 Quality Management System (QMS) Awareness with Risk Management Course” for its Head Office employees.

Starting on June 17 and concluding on June 18, the seminar-workshop was intended to acquaint the participants with the latest developments in ISO 9001:2015, improve employees’ quality competence and performance, and ensure that they are equipped with the right knowledge and tools to identify and manage business risks.

With the current shift of organizational focus wherein satisfying customer needs and expectations has become the paramount objective instead of profitability, the implementation of the Quality Management System became more imperative.

Setting aside the fulfillment of a regulatory compliance, the QMS is crucial to ensure that an organization is properly equipped in dependably meeting customer requirements, addressing future needs and expectations, installing preventive controls and reduce negative effects to optimize the utilization of opportunities as they surface.

When these are wholeheartedly grasped by employees, the QMS will certainly pave the way of cultivating a culture of excellence within the organization.
